She provides motivational counseling, reviews body composition and monitors patients' medical status as they progress towards their weight-loss goals.

Cathy has more than 25 years of experience as a registered nurse in surgical and outpatient care units. She most recently worked as a nurse practitioner at Goshen Center for Cancer Care with a special focus on caring for patients who participated in clinical research studies.

When Cathy is away from patient care, she dedicates time to her family and outdoor activities, including hiking and canoeing.
