About

BIOGRAPHY

Lindsay Tomkiewicz is a family nurse practitioner who cares for patients with disorders of the stomach, colon and liver at Goshen Physicians Gastroenterology. She diagnoses and manages chronic conditions, such as acid reflux, ulcers, colitis and Crohn's disease.

Lindsay began her nursing career in 2008 and has provided care for patients before and after surgery in the hospital and outpatient surgical units in the region.

When Lindsay is away from patient care, she devotes her time to three generations of loved ones in her family. She also enjoys traveling and baking.

PHILOSOPHY OF CARE

Education is an important part of Lindsay's approach to patient care. She helps patients understand the disease process and empowers them to take an active role in their health care. Lindsay is a strong advocate for changing dietary habits that can make a positive difference in quality of life for patients with gastrointestinal disorders.
